Bags are handcrafted one by one according to the production process that we keep on improving over time in order to make it more sustainable and efficient, yet not sacrificing quality.

Paul, our designer, deals with the design of the models and the realization of the graphics by using a special software: the time of the creation of a bag varies from 2to 4 hours, depending on the complexity of the piece. The graphics are always different and some models are composed of 12 elements.

Once the graphic is ready, it gets digitally printed on truck tarpaulin rolls or synthetic textured leather: digital printing is ideal because it allows us to obtain a very high resolution and an excellent color rendering. The printed materials are then covered by a protective layer to make them even more resistant to mechanical clutches, atmospheric agents and sunlight.

JEANS

Born in 1950, Roman by birth and Venetian by adoption, he dedicated his life to denim. After founding historical brands such as Americanino and Met, and having dictated the style for internationally renowned brands, today he dedicates himself to the brand that bears his name "GEGE".

Many well-known characters and faces from the show acted as indirect testimonials to his models, making them objects of desire, status symbol of belonging to the jet set.

His jeans are popular because they make women feel beautiful. It is an "accessory denim" embellished with embroidery, applications and special treatments carried out completely by hand. Since his debut, he stands out for its particular attention to the quality of the fabrics and for a particular craftsmanship, a mix between Made in Italy and the typical Venetian manufacturing industry.

Another distinctive element is the ability to anticipate fashion trends, thanks to a work-team in the style-research area ranging from 20 to 30 years. Denim is the most popular fabric in the world enriched by Italian creativity.
